VERY BIG PROPS

Very Big Props has a great collection of some of the largest and most complex propliners ever built; the Boeing C97, the Lockheed Super Constellation and the Douglas DC7. In one form or another, all three reigned supreme over the North Atlantic air routes and all ended up as careworn freighters trailing clouds of smoke behind them as they approached the scrap man.

Big twins like the C46 and the C119, also used large engines, so they feature too, along with some slightly smaller veteran propliners that either got in the way, or were too good to miss out.

Highlights include: Fabulous ramp action at Santo Domingo with DC7s, L1049s and more. A special feature on the Grace Aire C97, hauling salmon in Alaska, The Brooks Air Fuel DC7 in action, including a flightdeck ride, Florida Air Transport's magnificent DC7 in American Airlines colours Commemorative Air Force and Everts Air Fuel C46s, Four Star Air Transport Convair 440 HARS Super Constellation, Buffalo Airways DC4s, C46s, CL215s and Cansos, Air Spray A26 Invader. 75 mins #0298 NZ$44.95

707 SKYWARD

Royal Australian Air Force Boeing 707 A20-261 was awaiting the scrapper at RAAF Amberley in Queensland, Australia when Tom Vaughan, boss of Turbine Motor Works, decided to try to rescue it.

A year later, Tom and a team of engineers headed out to Amberley, together with our camera crew whom Tom had asked to record the project. Sent on ahead, were four JT3Ds and the heavy equipment needed to re-engine the 707 and get it back in the air.

Our unrestricted access to every aspect of the restoration of the 707 gives you an amazing insight into how a fifties jetliner works, plus a real sense of being there as we go through the highs and lows of engine runs, rejected take-offs, bug-fixing and flight testing.

Then, all we had to do was get back home. Crossing Australia to Darwin took six hours alone. Next day we left for the Maldives, surviving oil leaks and a 90 degree 23 knot crosswind when landing at Male. Then on to Cairo and finally Manston in Kent. Again, Tom's wish to record the event gave us superb access; three cameras in the cockpit and two in the cabin, where we even removed several rows of seats to get a better view!

Refining our 32 hours of video into a more manageable record, led to the idea of this DVD, which also supports the long term future of this 707 and Tom's ambition to enable the general public to fly on it and share the Adventure
